PACKERS
ASSOCIATION

Types of Trips and Cost

SPOT PACK TRIP is one in which you are packed to and left at a desirable campsite on a lake or stream, the stock and packer returning for you at a specified time. Average cost for a one day spot trip from $35 to $40 round trip, in groups of 4 or more for each person. $35 to $45 round trip each for a party of 2.

EXTENDED PACK TRIPS can be made in which the packer and stock remain with the party all of the time, so that you may move from one camp to another as you wish. Average cost $18 to $25 per day for each person.

ALL EXPENSE TRIP is an extended trip where camp gear, food and a cook are furnished by your pack outfit. Average cost $25 to $35 per day for each person.

DUNNAGE PACK is one which your load is packed to a predetermined destination and left while you hike to meet it. Cost is $6 to $8 per mule load, plus $18 and up for the packer, per day.

DAY RIDES with or without guide for an enjoyable day. $6 to $8 per horse without guide. Guides $15.00 and up.

BURROS may be obtained from some members. (*Marked in directory.) Rates are $3 and up per day.

Cost of your trip varies with size of party, amount of gear, and length of your trip. Almost any type and length of trip can be arranged with the packer of your choice.

What Can I Take On A Pack Trip?

The same gear and food as you would on any camp trip. Your packer can pack everything you will want to bring. Many sports stores rent equipment at a reasonable cost. For suggested food and equipment lists write the packer of your choice.

In the High Sierra Wilderness Area you will be camping in high altitude. While the days are usually pleasantly warm, the nights are rather cool. You should be well supplied with warm clothes for your evenings around the camp fire, and with warm sleeping bags or bed rolls for comfortable sleeping. Rain coats or slickers often come in handy, too, as we do have some heavy summer rains.

DON'T FORGET TO FEED YOUR PACKER!

To Help You and the Packer

In order to save time and unnecessary correspondence, please give the following information in your first letter to the packer:

1. How many persons will there be in your party?
2. Approximately what dates will you want to pack in and pack out?
3. To what lakes or to what area do you wish to pack?
4. Can you estimate how large your pack load will be—how many pounds?
5. Will you want continuous hire of the packer and animals, or will you want a spot pack trip?

Write to the pack stations of your choice . . . or, free brochures will be sent upon request to Secretary, Packer's Assn. Use coupon below.
